

Canton Sept. 7th 1887

To the Director of the U. S. Mint - of Philadelphia

Dear Sir: -

In reading one of the issues of the World recently, I saw that a subscriber had written to the Editor, describing some coins in his possession and asking information as to their value. The Editor in his reply directed him to apply to you, as you could inform him, having all kinds of coins in your business transactions with the world at large. -

I have a few that I am anxious to dispose of to the very best advantage possible.

My husband prior to his death of eighteen seventy, was a Banker, and in his dealings would accumulate foreign coins. Being somewhat of an antiquarian in taste, I had commenced collecting curiosities for a Cabinet - and these were some of the contributions. Upon the death of my husband the Banking business was entrusted to the management of two inexperienced Executors - with the usual result - a failure. I now find myself in embarrassed circumstances - and thought I could perhaps sell these coins to some one fond of gathering such relics, to great advantage.

Sometime since, I read in the World a notice of a very profitable sale of coins of the Estate of John T. Raymond on behalf of his widow - but she had friends to manage for her and hence her good fortune. I have no friend in your city to act for me. I had a friend in Wall Street - but he has passed away - so that now I know of no one. I am fatherless - a widow - and childless. I stand alone in the world - but I forget alone in the world - but I forget myself - pardon me, dear Sir - for speaking so much of myself. I do not wish to pose before you as any more worthy of sympathy or kindness than thousands of others. But I do wish to help myself, and language will fail to express my gratitude for any aid you can extend to effect this so much desired purpose.

I will enclose a list descriptive of the coins, and beg that you will let me hear from you soon.

Very Respectfully

Mrs. S. H. Winter

Canton

Mississippi

1120

RG104 E-1 Box 147

Canton Miss.

Sept 7. 1887

Mrs L. F. Hinter.

Old coins to dispose of.

RECEIVED
The coins described have no value above their face.
Except No. 10. which may upon an examination of the coin by a coin
dealer, be worth more.

I would refer her to
J. C. Randall, 1905 —
Chester St. Phila.

J. C.

[Abstract:] Old coins to dispose of.

Canton
September 7, 1887

To the Director of the U.S. Mint of Philadelphia

Dear Sir: -

In reading one of the issues of the World recently, I saw that a subscriber had written to the Editor, describing some coins in his possession and asking information as to their value. The Editor in his reply directed him to apply to you, as you could inform him, having all kinds of coins in your business transactions with the world at large.

I have a few that I am anxious to dispose of to the very best advantage possible. My husband prior to his death of eighteen seventy, was a Banker, and in his dealings would accumulate foreign coins. Being somewhat of an antiquarian in taste, I had commenced collecting curiosities for a Cabinet – and these were some of the contributions. Upon the death of my husband the Banking business was entrusted to the management of two inexperienced Executors – with the usual result – a failure. I now find myself in embarrassed circumstances – and thought I could perhaps sell these coins to some one fond of gathering such relics, to great advantage.

Sometime since, I read in the World a notice of a very profitable sale of coins of the Estate of John T. Raymond on behalf of his widow – but she had friends to manage for her, and hence her good fortune. I have no friend in your city to act for me. I had a friend in Wall Street – but he has passed away – so that now I know of no one. I am fatherless – a widow – and childless. I stand alone in the world – but I forget myself – pardon me, dear Sir – for speaking so much of myself. I do not wish to pose before you as any more worthy of sympathy or kindness, than thousands of others. But I do wish to help myself, and language will fail to express my gratitude for any aid you can extend to effect this so much desired purpose.

I will enclose a list descriptive of the Coins, and beg that you will let me hear from you soon.

Very Respectfully,
Mrs. S.F. Winter
Canton, Mississippi

[Enclosed note:]

U.S. Treasury Department.

The coins described have no value above their face. Except No. 10. Which may upon an examination of the coin by a coin dealer, be worth more.

I would refer her to J.C. Randall, 1905 Chestnut St. Phila.

MC.